LUIGI GIUSSANI (1922-2005) WAS AN ITALIAN PRIEST AND EDUCATOR WHO FOUNDED THE CATHOLIC MOVEMENT COMMUNION AND LIBERATION, WHICH IS NOWADAYS PRESENT IN MORE THAN 70 COUNTRIES ALL OVER THE WORLD.

For Fr. Giussani, a true education is such when it addresses the human heart the way God made it: with its needs for truth, beauty and justice.

What can we learn from Fr Giussani's approach in our own attempts to educate young people in a context like the UK?

On the occasion of the centenary of Fr. Giussani's birth, we would like to address this question through the experience of three speakers, who live and work in the Northwest of England:

PETER KAHN

Professor of Education at University of Manchester and an author on Christian family life for the Catholic Truth Society, London.

HANS VAN MOURIK BROEKMAN

Principal of Liverpool College, a school in Merseyside for children aged 4-18 years old.

GIOIA PALMIERI

Journalist who founded an educational initiative that offers courses in Italian language and culture to children and adults.

The discussion will be chaired by Rudi Palmieri, who lectures Argumentation and Communication at the University of Liverpool.
